With around 350 employees, the Saxon State and University Library (SLUB) is one of the largest academic libraries in Germany and Europe and a lively social place for academic exchange. It is committed to the openness concept, i.e. we mainly use and develop exclusively open source software.

As the holder of the advertised position, you will concentrate on the video and audio support of Kitodo.Presentation and improve its interoperability with international open science de facto standards such as IIIF. Kitodo.Presentation (https://github.com/kitodo/kitodo-presentation) is an open source TYPO3-based framework for the web-based use of digital collections.

You will become part of the 12-person SLUB team that develops web applications and the 50-person IT team that develops and operates IT services for our users and employees.

We are looking for a

Fullstack-Web Developer und Open-Source-Enthusiast JavaScript, PHP

with a contract duration of 36 months commencing as soon as possible to support our team. The successful candidate will be paid according to TV-L E13 (for more information see here).
Tasks

- Development and improvement of the open-source framework Kitodo.Presentation (https://github.com/kitodo/kitodo-presentation)
- Backend-programming in PHP
- Frontend-programming in JavaScript

Requirements

- Experience in software development, scripting and project management
- In-depth knowledge of object-oriented programming languages such as PHP
- Good knowledge in JavaScript
- Knowledge in development of extensions for TYPO3 with Extbase / Fluid
- Knowledge and experience in versioning (Git)
- Analytical mind with problem-solving aptitude
- Ability to work independently
- MSc in computer science or a related degree
- Good command of English
- Basic command of German is very welcome

Benefits

- Remote work and flexible working hours
- Diverse tasks in a modern, top quality library
- Public interest oriented work in a responsible position with creative freedom
- Multiple opportunities for cooperation and success in a highly motivated team
- Extensive opportunities for continuing education and personal development
- Individual solutions for a good compatibility of work and family life in a certified family-friendly workplace

Further information on the profile of the open position may be obtained from Alexander Bigga, Alexander.Bigga@slub-dresden.de.

Please submit complete applications by 18th of July, 2021 via email to bewerbung@slub-dresden.de. To further increase the proportion of women at the library, equally qualified female candidates will be given preference. Applicants with disabilities will be preferentially considered in case of equal qualification. Please note that with your application you grant us permission to save and process your personal data until the termination of the recruiting process.